scanned data on Recalbox Windows A: Recalbox is a SaaS application for automatically adjusting Kodi builds based on your stored media. Recalbox lists, reads and scans all the media you've stored to your PC, such as the movies and TV shows, music, and photos. Then it analyses this media to decide how to optimize Kodi builds for your media. At this time, there is no way to force Kodi to rebuild its database from scratch. The workaround is to use Recalbox and to import your media files, instead of just linking them to Kodi. That way Recalbox will examine the imported media and populate the database accordingly. You'll want to install the Recalbox Windows client here and run the import process. Then you'll need to wait until the database is "parsed" by Recalbox to ensure it's built correctly. Once it is, you can either modify the database manually, or just wait for Recalbox to rebuild the database (and Kodi) automatically at its scheduled time. What's the Perfect Pitch to Get Noticed as an Undergraduate Student? If you're thinking about applying to grad school but aren't sure how to craft a solid application, keep reading. Because whether you are thinking about grad school later on or if you're already in the class of 2021, there are a few elements that you can tweak if you haven't already begun a pre-process to create a thoughtful application. Whether you like to keep things simple or prefer a more complex analysis, do your research. Look for people who've already applied. What makes their applications distinct? How did they succeed? Don't ask yourself the same questions, but if you haven't found a person already on your radar, look online at what admissions officers are looking for in applicants. Here are several questions to make sure you're considering the right areas to discuss if you're applying to a PhD program or if you're looking to get into a doctorate program. For more, check out The Top Ten Tips for PhD Applications and Doctorate Applications. What's your goal in school? "One of the most important things that schools want to see is a genuine desire to learn, develop, and contribute to academic culture. Whether they're interested in a
